DEPLORABLE IGNORANCE -- A recent issue of the British Quarterly Review contains the following-nay, almost incredible revelations of the ignorance which exists among some sections of the British community: "In Birmingham thirty-two persons, averaging more than twelve years of age, including a young not tell the Queen's name. The commonest and simplest objects of nature, such as flowers, birds, fishes, mountains, and the sea, were unknown. Some thought London was a country, one that it was in the exhibition; a violet was said to be pretty bird; a primrose a red rose; lilac also a bird; but whether a robin or an eagle were birds none could say; some knew not what a river meant, or where snow comes from; and a cow in a picture was pronounced to be a lion. Multitudes of these poor childdren can never have seen a primrose by the nver's brim, or heard the song of the lark.
